1. The organization France-Roumanie, with headquarters at 16 Rue Vezelay, Paris, has as its purpose the strengthening of friendly relations between the French and Rumanian peoples. This association is reportedly dominated by the Communists. Its secretary-general is Maurice Darras, a French lawyer.
2. A literary review, Les Cahiers France-Roumanie, is published by the group. Paper for this publication is supplied by Ion Vitianu, a Rumanian Communist. Vitianu edited the French edition of Under Three Dictatorships, a study of Rumania between the two world wars written by Lucretiu Patrascanu, Communist Minister of Justice in the present Rumanian Government.
